Re: Closing the Terror Gap and Combating Gangs and Illegal Guns

Dear Majority Leader Reid and Speaker Pelosi:

This fall, Congress has an opportunity to improve public safety and homeland security by passing a provision that enjoys bipartisan support at every level of government: from the Bush Administration and the Department of Justice, to a bi-partisan group of leaders in the U.S. House and Senate, to our coalition of more than 225 mayors representing more than 50 million Americans. The provision closes a gap in federal law by giving the U.S. Attorney General the ability to prevent terror suspects from buying guns. Six years after the attacks of September 11, the federal government still has no authority to stop gun sales to terror suspects – some of the very people federal investigators have identified as too dangerous to get on an airplane.

It is clear that terrorists, including members of al-Qaeda, are intent on buying guns here in America and using them against us in attacks. A number of training manuals have been discovered in recent years that included detailed instructions on how to buy guns and ammunition and how to store and transport those weapons covertly. In 2005, the FBI and the nonpartisan Government Accountability Office found that people on a terrorist watch list were able to buy guns from licensed dealers on 47 different occasions in less than nine months.

Mayors Against Illegal Guns, a bi-partisan coalition of mayors from around the country committed to preventing guns from falling into the hands of criminals, strongly supports the Denying Firearms and Explosives to Dangerous Terrorists Act (S.1237 and H.R. 2074). This legislation will close this glaring “terror gap” in our gun laws. Giving the Attorney General the ability on a case-by-case basis to block gun sales to terrorism suspects is sound policy. It’s good for public safety and good for homeland security, and that is why mayors, members of Congress and the Bush Administration support it. And we know that the public supports it, too. Earlier this year, the coalition commissioned a survey, jointly conducted by Democratic firm Greenberg Quinlan Rosner Research and Republican firm The Tarrance Group, that polled 803 Americans about a variety of illegal gun issues. The poll found that 86% of Americans, including 88% of gun owners, supported the idea of prohibiting people on the federal terrorism watchlist from purchasing firearms.

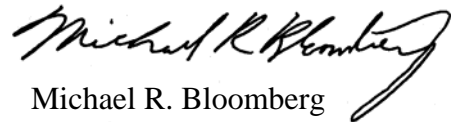

The coalition was pleased to learn that the provision to close the terror gap has been included in the House version of the 2007 Gang Prevention, Intervention and Suppression Act (H.R. 3547). The bill would also allow various gang and gun crimes to be tried in federal court where sentences are tougher, create new federal crimes related to gangs and violence, and authorize funding for many critical law enforcement and crime prevention programs. The most recent report by the FBI shows that violent crime – including violent gun crime – has been increasing nationwide. This bill will help localities reverse that trend, and including the provision to close the terror gap in our gun laws is just common sense.

As Mayors, our highest responsibility is protecting public safety in America's cities and towns. We urge Congress to stand with us in that effort by taking quick action to close the terror gap by passing the Denying Firearms and Explosives to Dangerous Terrorists Act and H.R. 3547.

Sincerely,

Thomas M. Menino
Mayor of Boston
